To Sister Loretta

For two years the counseling, scheduling, and guidance of our principal, Sister Mary Loretta, O.P., has better prepared us for our future. Her encouragement, influence, and labor have been responsible for many of the scholastic honors received by the students of St. Vincent. Hard work, loyalty, and justice reflect her attitude toward us. We, the seniors of 1961, are proud, therefore, to dedicate our yearbook, The Shamrock, to Sister Loretta.

"All the Joys We've Known"

The capacity to savor joy
when it comes
And to stand straight in sadness
Is developed at St. Vincent—Through learning, that we may recognize joy;
Through friendship, that we may give it;
And through union with God,
that we may truly possess it.

N. H. S. shows scholastic achievement

N.H.S. officers Hank Durand, Ann Gibson, Neal Holleran and Marianne Mellion study hard to keep their scholastic averages.

Proudly, Mark and Karen Schillinger show their parents the mascot of the magazine drive at Open House.

Since the purpose of the National Honor Society is to maintain a standard of excellence among the top ranking students throughout the country, the honor of wearing the N.H.S. membership pin is one of the greatest that can be attained in high school. Membership is based on scholarship, leadership, character, and service in high school.

Annually the Open House conducted by the teachers of Saint Vincent's, gives parents an opportunity to talk to teachers and to get a better insight into the behavior and scholastic aptitude of their children. It gives poor students warning and good ones praise. Parents are keenly interested in the samples of the students' work which are on display.

M. M. M. provides recognition in music

Officers Connie Gill, Lorraine Moffet, Janice Novak and John Earley witness the enrollment of Thomas Kraft into the M.M.M. by Nick Ciriello, presiding.

Carol Kuchenbrod, Arlene Kuhn, Marianne Mellion, Ronny Armbruster, Bernadine Antonino, Kathy Michalec, Frank Petroski, and Jim Flynn sing the praises of God at a church service.

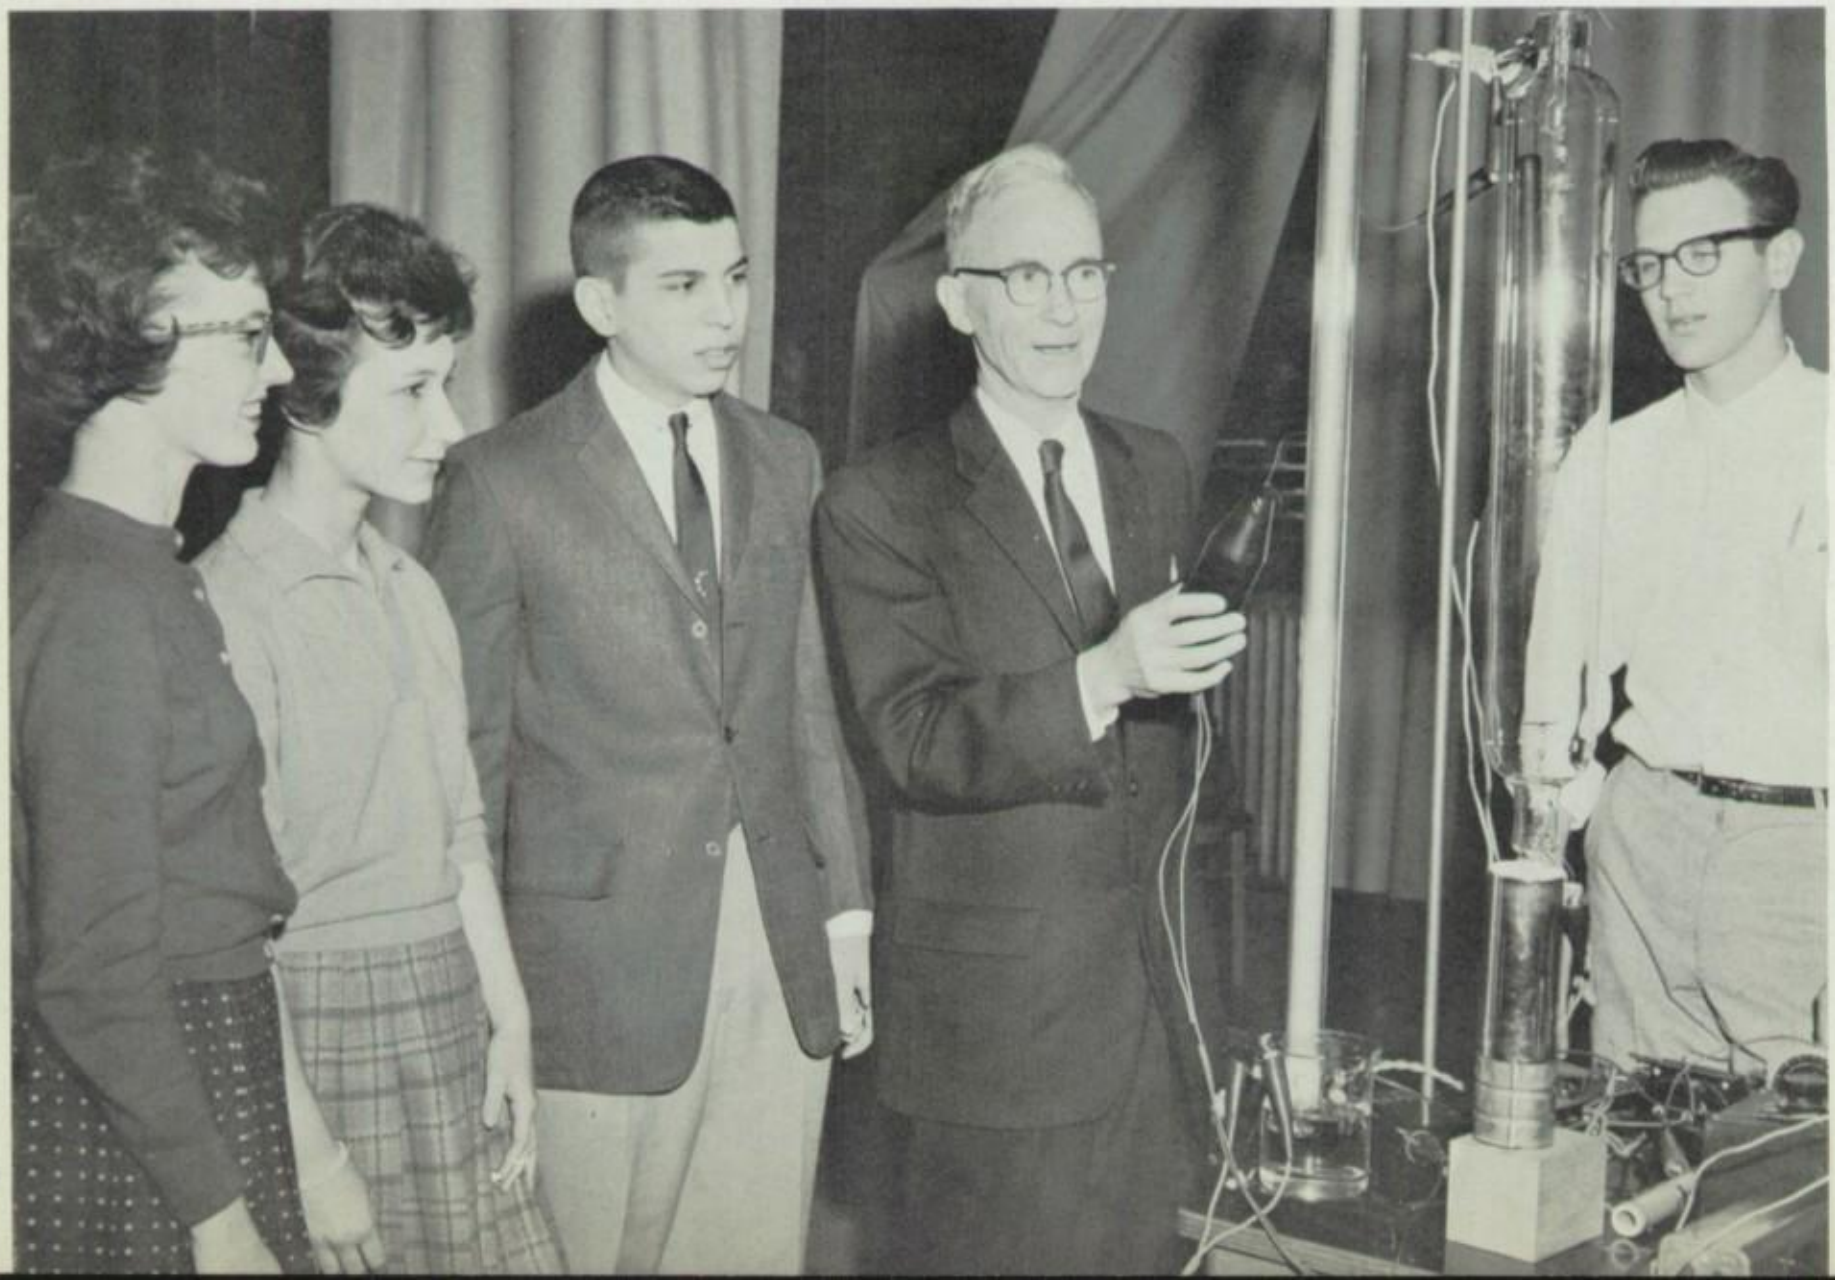
Music, as sung by exuberant, youthful voices can express any spirit and emotion imaginable. Perhaps the music of Saint Vincent's high school chorus conveys the real spirit of St. Vincent's better than anything else. Each year our chorus is invited to make appearances on television and before civic and cultural groups. Some excellent reviews given to the spring plays at St. V. are due in great part to the musical interpretations of the chorus. In January, the chorus members participated in the Diocesan Music Festival in Cleveland. Chorus is perhaps the most relaxing class at St. V. Everyone loves to sing, and it is this spirit which makes us work so hard to be best. Modern Music Masters, a national honor society for music students, is an active organization at St. V.

Chem-Phy fosters science know-how

Complete understanding of the sciences cannot be simply taken right out of the textbook; it has to be gained through experimentation and research. The Chem-Phy Club gives the opportunity to students to see, through demonstrations and tours, the outside applications of the things they are learning in the classroom. A complete tour of the Firestone research laboratories and a brightly-colored demonstration of the use of inert gases in fluorescent lights were the outstanding projects of the Chem-Phy Club this year.

Chem-Phy Club officers John Klein, Marianne Mellion, and Ned Endress demonstrate laws of molecular structure using models made by Chem-Phy members.

Brightly-colored fluorescent lamps used in the demonstration of the inert gases held the attention of the whole student body. Chem-Phy Club members Dolores Flanagan, Diane Wysocki, John Russo and Jim Gras look on as Dr. Kenty of General Electric's Nela Park demonstrates the properties of neon. This demonstration, sponsored by the Chem-Phy Club, was given in a special assembly before the complete student body.



Boosters build spirit in student body

St. Vincent High School is well-known as one of the most successful athletic "plants" in the state. This reputation has been built through the years by a succession of winning athletic teams, but another factor which has greatly contributed to the athletic fortunes of the Irish is the tremendous spirit of the students of St. Vincent. The club in our school whose sole aim is to build and keep alive the wonderful spirit of the Fighting Irish is the Vincenteen Boosters. They make sure that no team goes out to do battle without realizing support.

Booster officers, Paula George (vice-president), Bernadine Antonino (president), and Kathy Williams (secretary) put their thoughts on paper before the East game.

In one of the funniest cheer rallies of the year, the Vincenteen Boosters depicted the slaughter of Buchtel by the Fighting Irish. The cagers Toni Perkins, Lynn Carroll, Bonnie Ochsenhirt, Joanne Kirstein, Penny Dickinson, Sylvia Tipton, Pat Murty, Rita Brett, Jeanne Manderbach, Dolores Lobello, Barb Flynn, and Ellen Bertsch left the whole student body "in stitches" and helped to relieve some of the tension before the opening game.

Shamrock staff works for perfection

Copy editors Joe Palmer and Linda Dangel encourage perfection from their writers and typists, Bernadine Antonino, John Klein, Hank Durand, June Walsh, Nancy Shedlosky, and Marianne Mellion, as Nick Ciriello takes care of business matters.

The Shamrock, the annual yearbook of St. Vincent High School is a publication that brings much joy and recognition now, and will bring even more joy and fond memories later, to students of St. Vincent. The yearbook staff which makes this all possible works steadily for seven months to put out a worthwhile yearbook, so that the Shamrock has been one of the highest ranking publications in the Ohio area with a number of ratings of All-American and Medalist. The planning staff plans the yearbook, takes pictures, and lays out the pages. The copy staff does all the writing and identifications according to specifications. Members of both staffs attended the yearbook workshops at Ohio University and the University of Detroit last summer, and at Western Reserve.

The planning and layout staff is composed of Margie Capotosto, co-editors Valerie Shaul and Frank Schwenning, Linda Manuel, Paula George, John Reichart, Barbara Crano, Alice Zarling, Martha Kovalcik, Ed Labbe, John Russo, Dolores Lobello, Sandra Giosso, and Neal Holleran. Lay-out pages will "come to life" later.

as the Vincentian covers the school

Vincentian editors, Joan Martin, Penny Dirrig, Pat Denholm, Diane Reymann and Tim Souers plan the next issue.

The voice of the students of St. Vincent, the Vincentian, comes out once a month. The fact that it is anticipated by all is due credit to its excellence. Besides reporting the special events that are taking place in the school, the Vincentian runs helpful items of interest for the students, such as: reports on colleges, editorials on current affairs, and student opinions of future events.

Under the supervision of Sister Martin, the staff covers all functions and activities relative to the high school. Also the members of the Vincentian staff have competed in many writing contests and conventions including the Diocesan Scholastic Press Association Writing Clinic. Art editor Ann Gibson won a Scholastic Art Award this year, and the Vincentian "made" All-American.

Members of the Vincentian staff—John Kehrle, Marcia Goehler, Ann Gibson, Sue Krupp, Alma Batal, Julie Judge, Lorraine Moffet, Gerry Yen, and Joe Palmer—work to meet their deadlines.

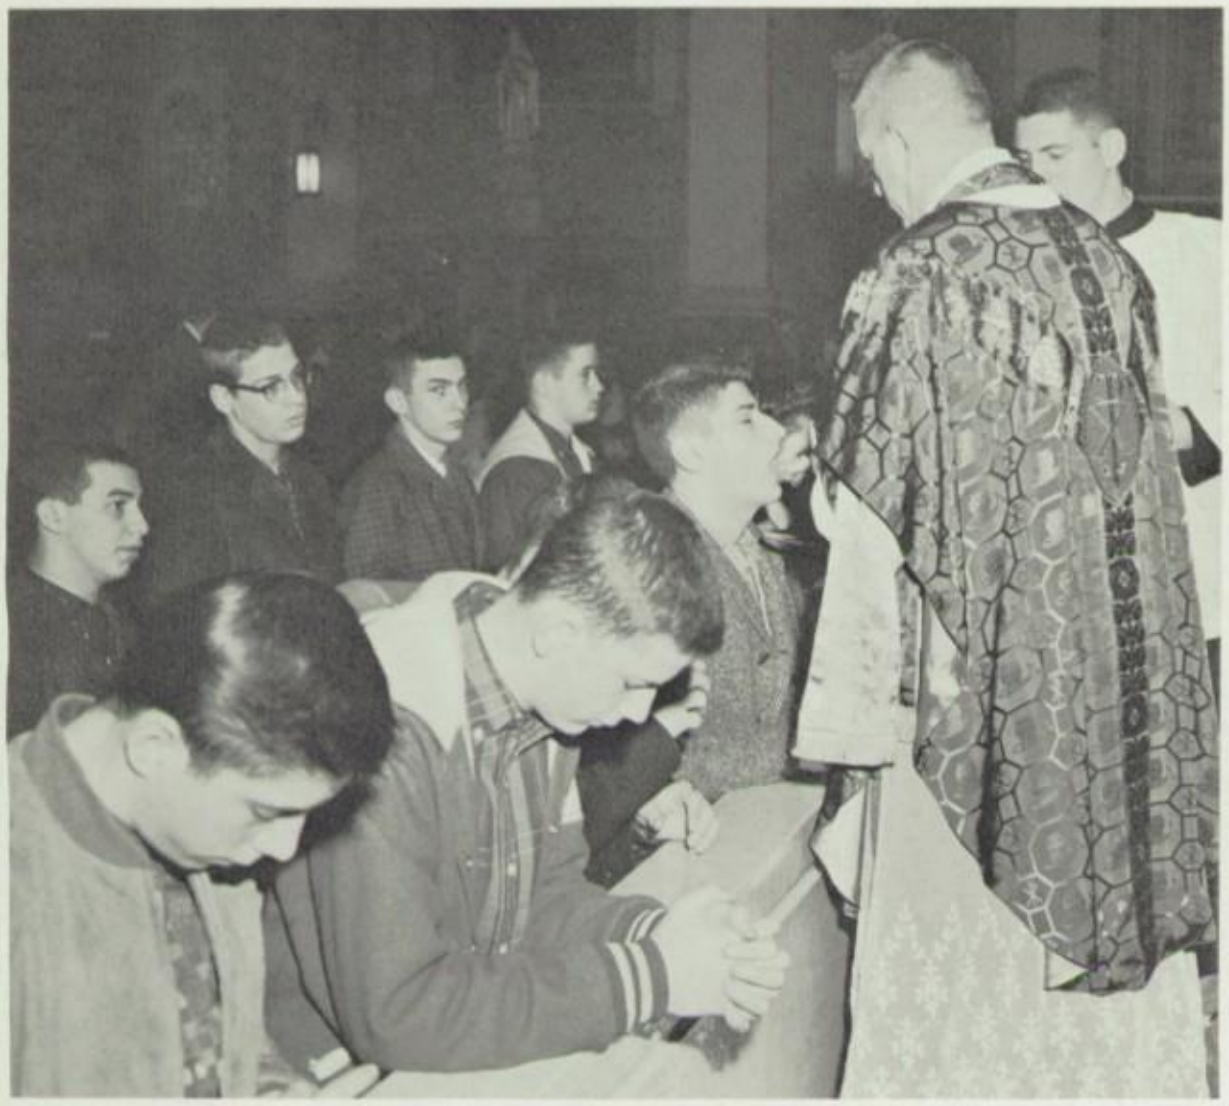
Retreat brings students nearer to God,

Though they may seem small, the choir boy favors which members of the C. S. M. C. made for the Christmas trays at Saint Thomas Hospital helped to make the day a little brighter for those who had to spend their holidays in bed. Busily making the favors are Carolyn Buescher, Jeanne Robert, Sandy Scott, Martha Kovalcik, Rosemary De Rosa, Suzanne Murphy, Lois Gerry, and Lois Mellion.

The prefects of the sodality, Tom Fitz and Barbara Crano, "put up" the bulletin board with its reminder to pray for union during the Church Unity Octave. Neal Holleran and June Walsh, vice-prefects, stand by to offer their assistance. Sodality "artists" planned all!

Two clubs at St. Vincent which devote all their energy to furthering the Catholic Faith and to promoting the welfare of mankind are the Sodality of the Immaculate Conception and the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade. Sodality members better their own lives by daily Mass, Communion, and devotion to the Blessed Mother. They and C. S. M. C. workers aid the less fortunate members of society by such works of charity as filling food baskets at Christmas time and distributing them among the needy families in the city.

to foster faith and help our neighbor



For many, it was, perhaps, the last retreat ever to be made in their lives. For others, it was a break in the school year that offered a chance to take inventory of their lives and try to get closer to God. The retreat consisted of conferences on subjects helpful to the spiritual life, and movies on vocations. The boys attended Mass and Communion daily; a priest was always present to administer the sacrament of Penance.

Father Schleicher distributes Holy Communion during the boys' retreat.

One of the most rewarding activities of the school year is the annual retreat which all students at St. Vincent attend. The retreat master for the girls this year was Father Hilkert from St. Mary's parish. Father, in the seven conferences which he gave, stressed the three stages of spiritual development—the purgative, the illuminative, and, finally, the fullness of grace. The points fully illustrated for us the important part religion plays in our lives.

Father Hilkert held the attention of the girls throughout the retreat.

Drama Club puts talent on display

Drama club members Nancy Shedlosky, Barb Adams, Mark Schillinger, Frank Petroski, Nick Caruso, Priscilla Pouser, Angela Davison, Kathleen Deagan, and Alma Batal study their scripts as Mary Nist makes up Dora Kutz for part in the production. The Drama Club prepares several short plays during the school year.

The Drama Club at St. Vincent is now in its second year. This year, under the faculty supervision of Mrs. Charlotte Hummel, the club is devoting most of its time to writing up its bylaws. In addition, members have helped students with speaking parts in this year's musical production to rehearse their lines. Under the direction of Mrs. Hummel, the Drama Club has become very active in the school.

"Maybe then I might fall back on you" sings Barb Adams to Dick Querry on the Cotton Blossom.

Just like "Ol' Man River" the students of St. Vincent just kept rolling along. After two months of hard work the original Broadway production of Showboat was presented to capacity crowds in the fieldhouse. It was a smashing success! This musical was presented with a professional touch that would compare favorably with any other one.

During one of the tense scenes of Showboat, Jack Doran argues with Antoinette Perkins, Tony Butowicz and Paula George.

as Showboat draws acclaim from all

Showboat started out "big" with the whole cast singing on the pier where the Cotton Blossom was tied up. The dancing of Barb Adams and Dick Querry stole the show during the introduction. The singing of "My Bill" and "Can't Help Lovin' That Man" by Toni Perkins and Joanne Kirstein gave "new life" to the musical.

Captain Andy (played by Jack Doran), and his wife Parthy (Joann Kirstein), "live it up" at the World's Fair. Jack won the Oscar for the best performance of the play. As this scene takes place, neither Andy nor Parthy has any idea that they will soon be reunited with Magnolia, their long-lost daughter (Paula George).

The Maite brothers' portrayal of two ignorant backwoodsmen attending the drama on the Showboat brought spontaneous laughter from every audience. Here they buy their tickets from Barb Adams and Dick Querry. Note Dick's face! This scene in which Jack Doran acted all the roles of the drama on the Showboat was acclaimed the best in the show.

"When the Saints Go Marching In," the student body of St. Vincent can be justly proud. Our marching band, under the direction of Mr. Robert Lewis, has afforded us many opportunities for pride. The bandsmen have this year presented some of the best halftime shows that the football spectators have ever had the pleasure of watching. Especially popular this year were the shows in which the stadium lights were dimmed and the band danced with only their boots lighting the field. This crowd-pleasing effect of dancing feet showed off the class and precision of St. Vincent Marching Band and majorettes. With our drum major, Edward Labbe, leading them in their smart green uniforms, they present a picture of perfect precision. Not to be forgotten are the agile majorettes who accompany the band. These seven girls, under the leadership of their captain, Carol Spalding, have added spice to all of the band's performances. They danced at all of the cheer rallies and practiced long and hard with the band so they could help to make the students proud here, too. In their new uniforms with prominent Irish shamrocks, the St. Vincent majorettes are one of the most attractive advertisements of St. V.

Rousing cheers sound order of the day

Such excellent spirit exhibited this year by the student body was largely a result of the fine leadership displayed by the cheerleaders. Never waning in loyalty and spirit, the varsity cheerleaders were ever-present before the stands, cheering the team on to victory while the reserves could be seen doing their part amidst the students. Smartly clad in their green and white, they represent the long hours spent at hard work perfecting the cheers used by the school at cheer-rallies and games. "Thank you to our cheerleaders" . . . for a job well done. We have the best!

Irish capture district, Inter-City crown

All the Irish eyes were smiling when this year's football season ended! In the last game of the season, with the pressure on, the Saints won a hard-fought victory which gave them the Inter-City crown and the title of District Champs. The season was one of victory and glory, but any of the players will tell you that hard work at practice and a supreme effort in every game were the main factors for victory. Another important ingredient was the fine spirit of the players and students at every game. This year's championship team serves to prove that St. Vincent's is still a major football power in this section of the state. The team showed they had what it takes to be a great one by bouncing back from their sole crushing defeat at the hands of a major state power. Our hats off to the team for giving us an unforgettable year once again.

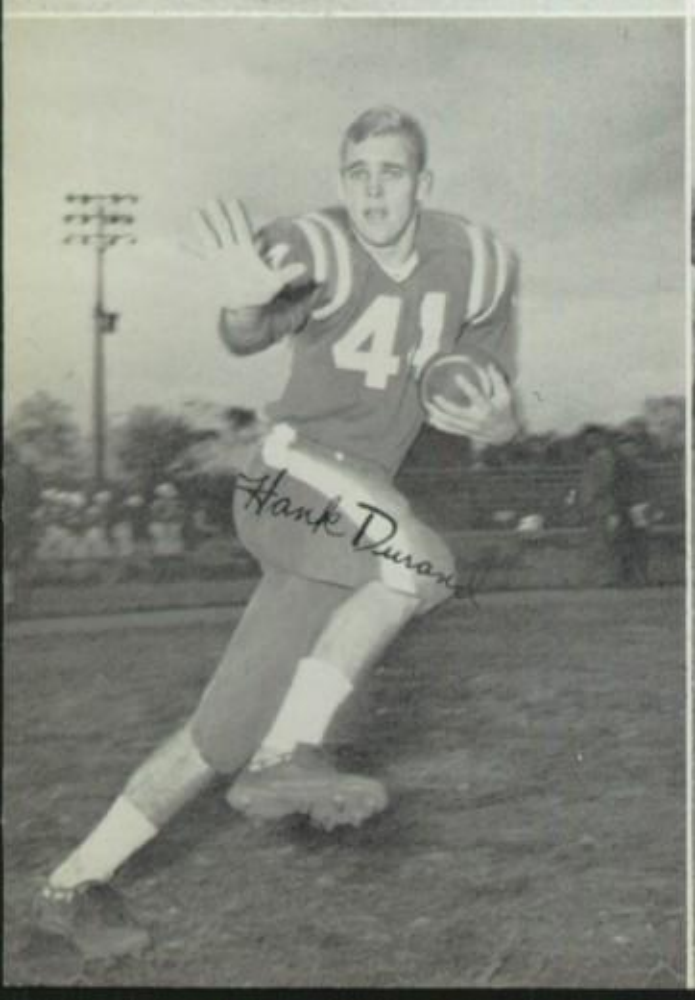
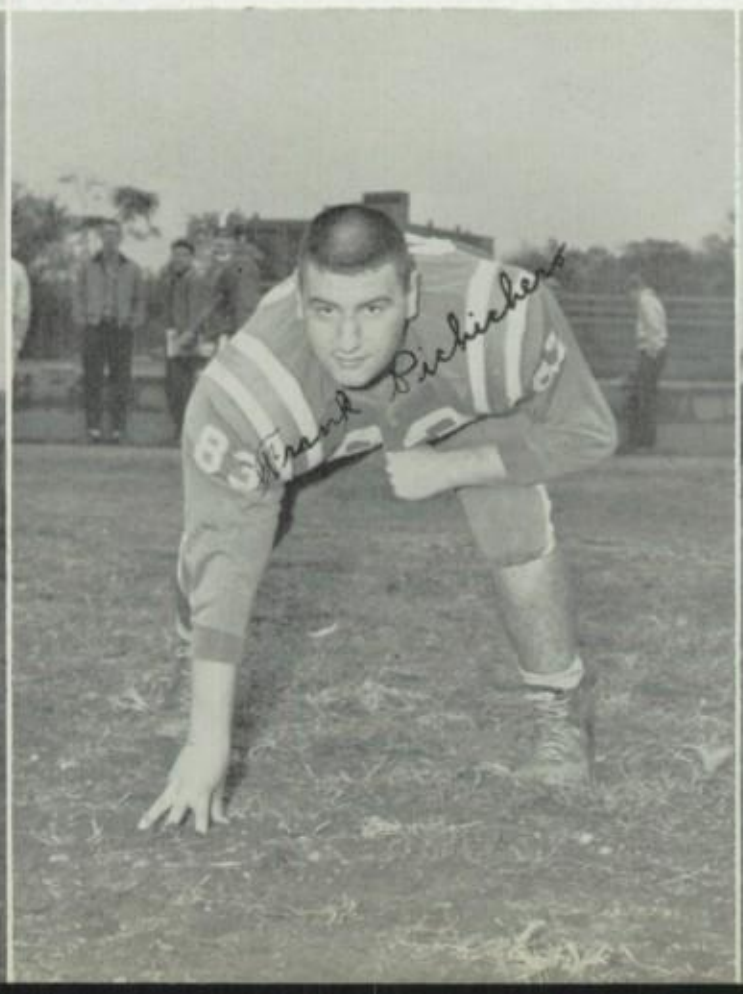
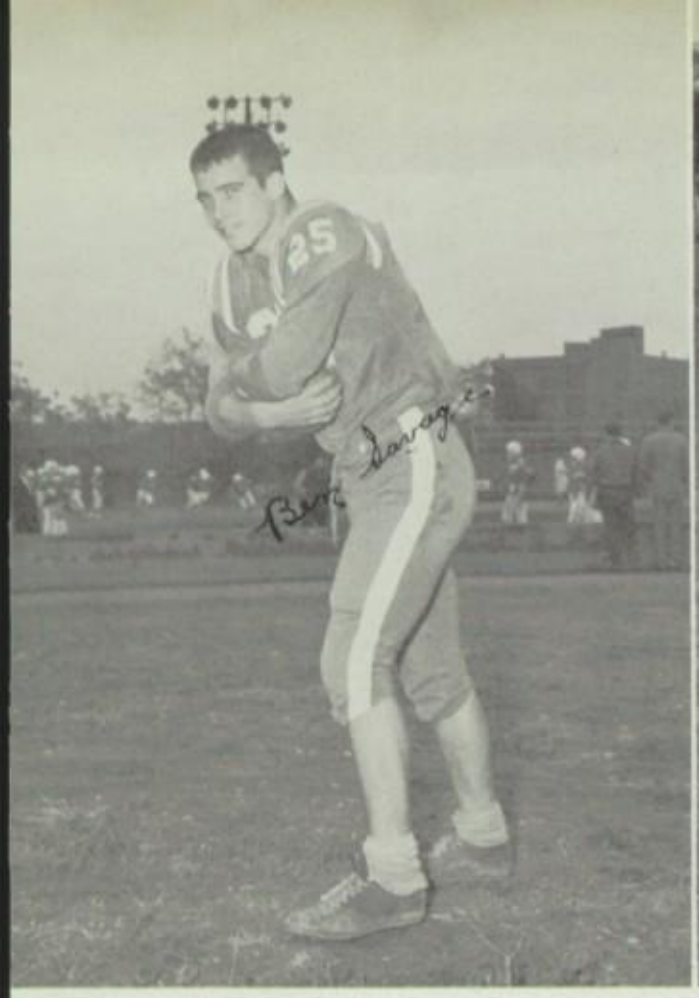
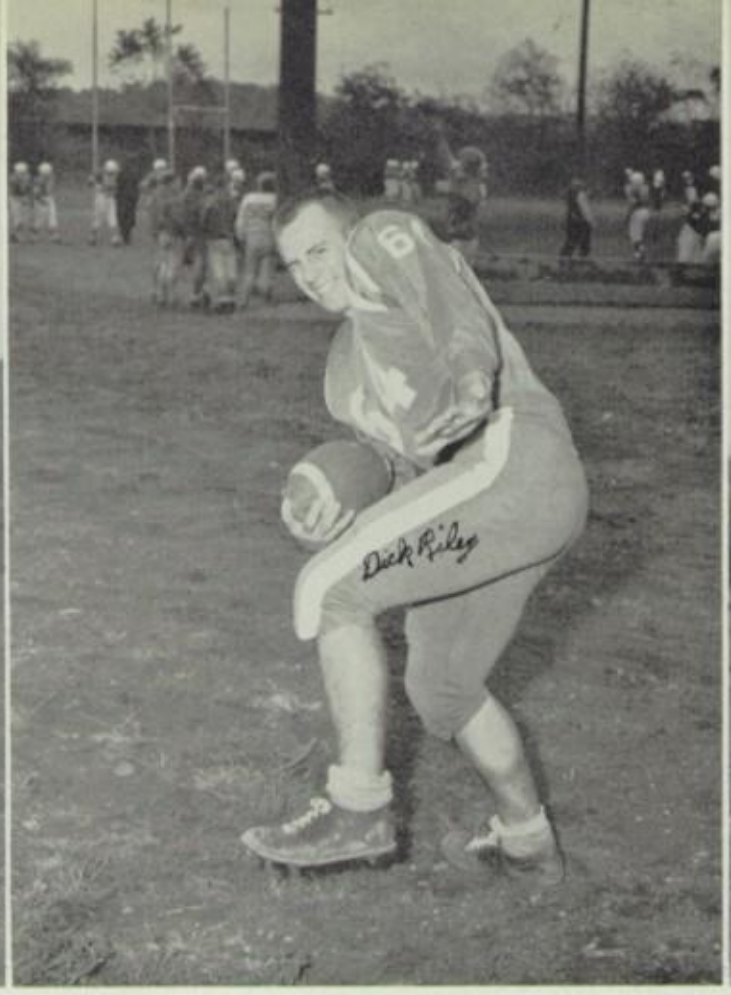
Homecoming Queen reigns

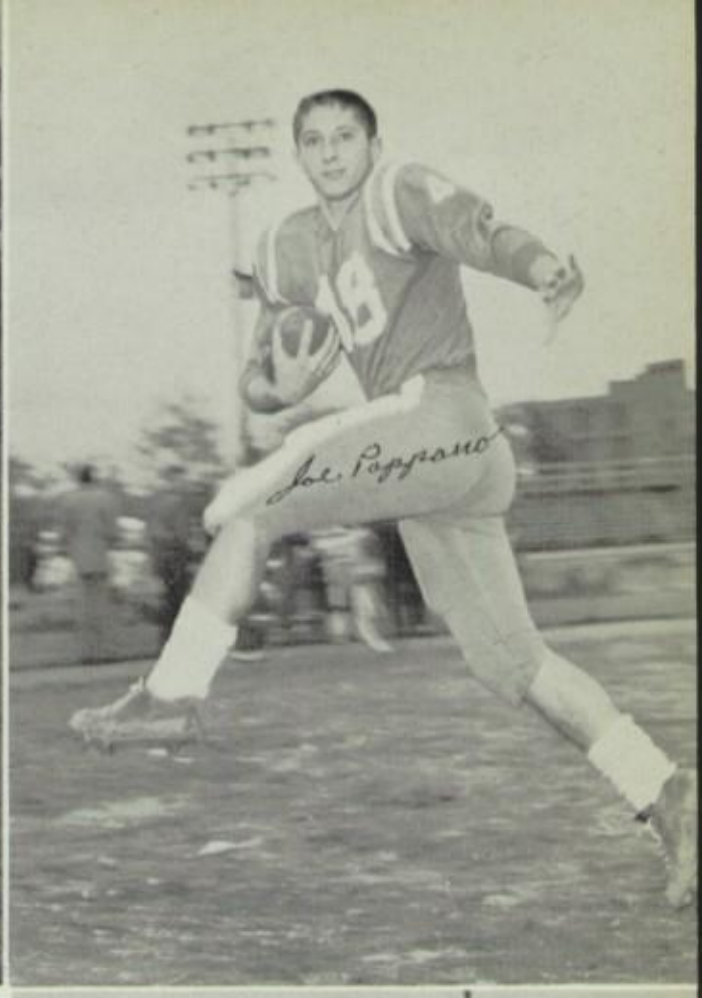
During half-time of the Homecoming Game of St. Vincent vs. Central, our 1960 Homecoming Queen, Toni Perkins, was presented to the student body. Under an archway of batons provided by the majorettes, Queen Toni walked down the field on the arm of Drum Major Ed Labbe. Hard work and excellent team co-operation, combined with playing ability, proved to be a stumbling-block to eight of the nine teams encountered by the Irish. Leading this year's award winners were the co-captains: Tony Butowicz, Hank Durand, and Tom Fitz. Tony received Player of the Year Award, All-Ohio (3rd. team), All-City, All-Inter-City, and All-Catholic.





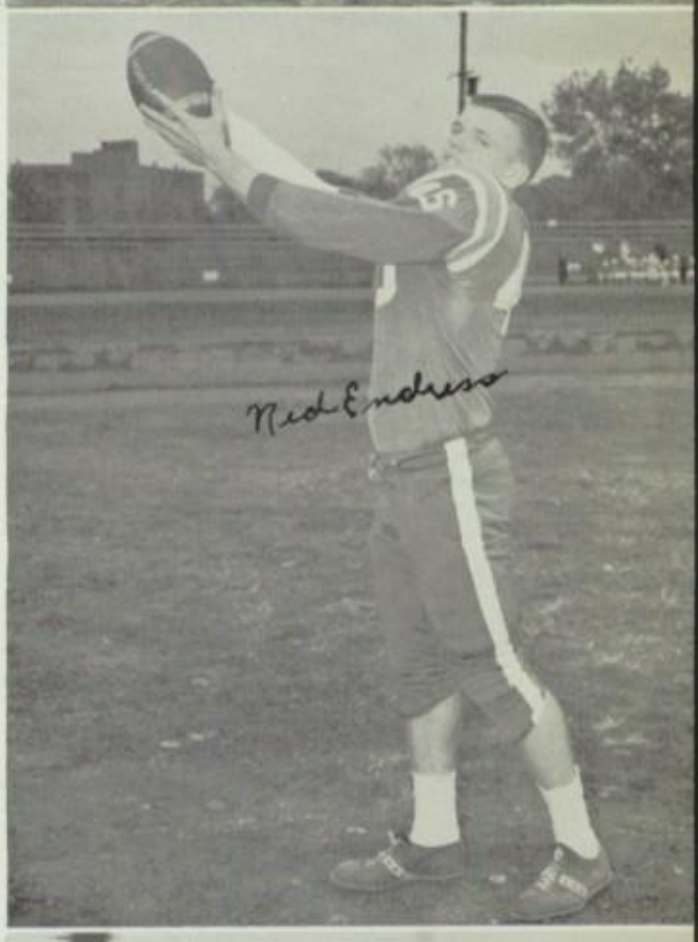


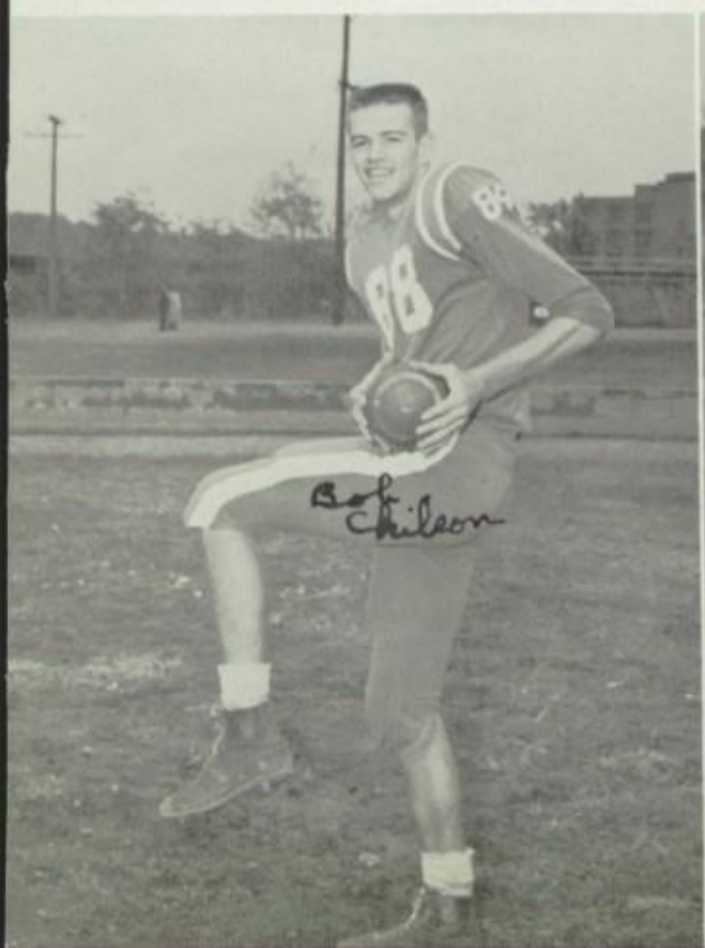


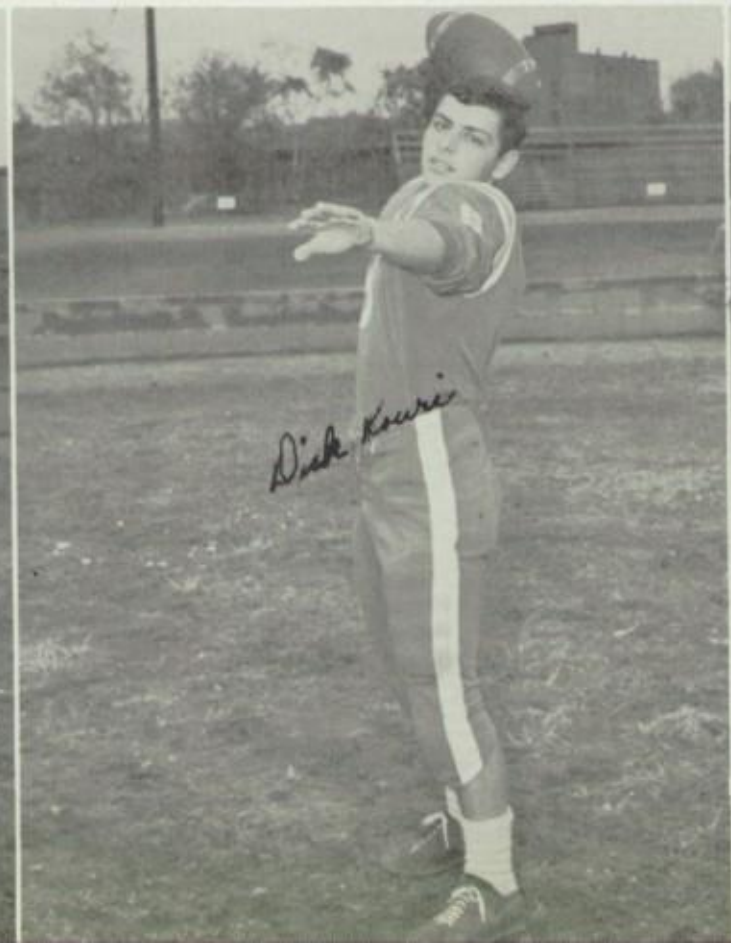


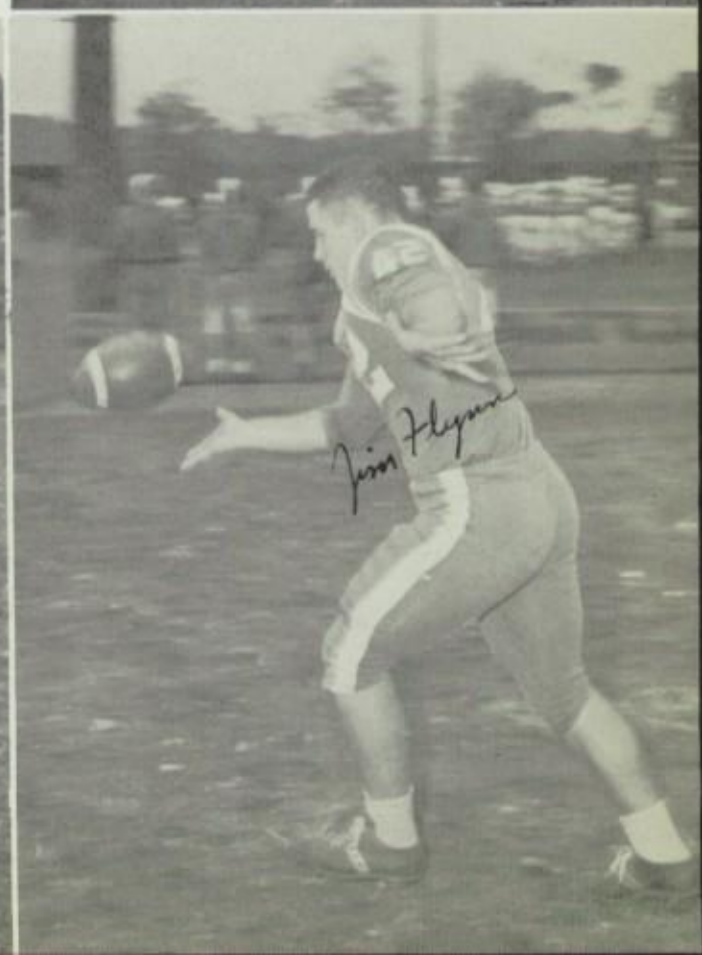
Fighting Irish rule gridiron

Hank Durand placed for All-District, All-City, All-Inter-City, and All-Catholic. Tom Fitz made All-City, All-Inter-City, and All-District (2nd. team). Pigskin prowess was rewarded. Giving powerful support in the backfield were seniors Jim Flynn, Dick Riley, Joe Pappano, Dick Kouri, and Ben Savage. Anchoring the able-bodied line was a job exceptionally well done by Frank Pichichero, Ned Endress, Tim Ede, and Bob Chilson. Injuries to starters Tim Ede and Ned Endress deprived the Irish of two defensive standouts for a greater part of the season. The seniors were the backbone of Coach Wentz's pro-style offense and defense. We'll miss them!

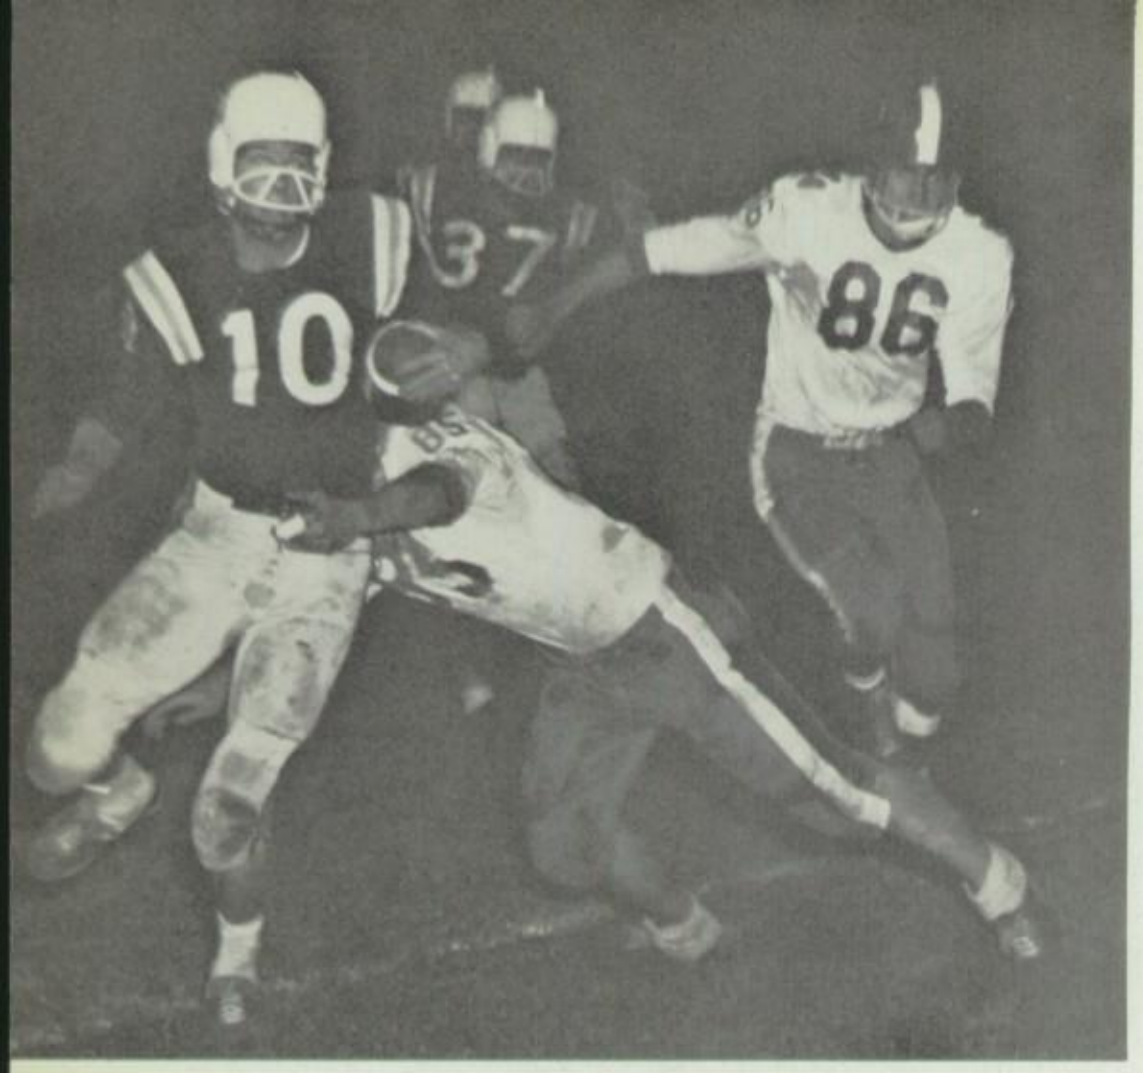








These were great



An Alliance back tries to squirm free as Jerry Rothermel pulls him down and Jim Barr rushes in to assist.

Durand carries against

St. V. 28 Hoban 12

St. V. gave the city a glimpse of what was to come in the wake of their destruction of Hoban. The Irish team avenged their loss of the year before and became the first Irish team to whip the Knights in football.

St. V. 27 Canton Catholic 6

At the end of the first half the team led a tough Canton Central squad 8 to 6. When Durand returned the opening half kickoff back 80 yards and broke Central's back, the rough game turned into a rout.

Larry Mackey

St. V. 14 Barberton 0

Red flags causing 150 yards in penalties and an acute case of fumbilitis almost saw the Irish hand away the game. Butowicz, Fitz and Meeker's brilliant line play and Flynn's outstanding punting saved the Irish.

St. V. 6 Alliance 52

The Irish, trying hard to impress their backers and poll writers, pressed too hard and paid the penalty. Alliance led 16 to 0 with only two minutes gone in the first quarter and completely demoralized the Irish.

days for the Irish

Falls as Meeker blocks

St. V. 26 East 20

Bouncing back from "Black Friday," the Irish showed everyone that they had what it takes to make a great team. The line ripped gaping holes into East's defenses. Pappano came off the bench and led the team to victory.

St. V. 21 Central 0

Queen Toni Perkins received a gift from the whole Irish team in the form of a 21 to 0 white-washing of Central in front of a capacity Home-coming crowd. The Irish advanced at will and reserves finished the game.

St. V. 68 Ravenna 6

Ravenna was just not in our class and found it out quickly. The Ravens were left behind through a barrage of touchdowns which saw the Irish lead 34 to 0 at halftime.

St. V. 38 Canton Lincoln 0

The Irish gridders piled up 465 yards on the ground and maintained a 38 to 0 lead at the end of the first half. This enabled them to coast to victory. The Irish moved one step closer to the I.C.C. crown.

St. V. 12 Cuyahoga Falls 6

In a game that was marked by brutal contact and good hardnose football, the Irish came through with a blaze of glory. Led by Mackey, the team emerged the new champs.

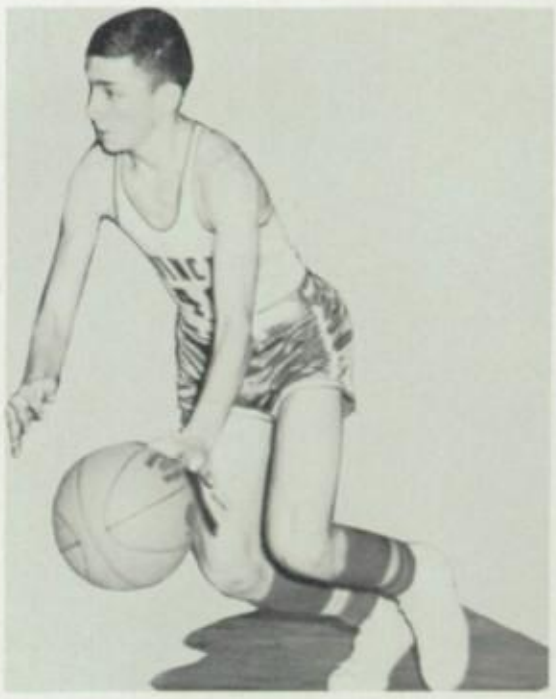
Chargers push shooting, rebounding

Basketball at St. Vincent this year had its high points and its low ones. The Irish were tall and talented, but sometimes lacked the poise to win close ball games. The passing, shooting offense installed by Coach Endress took full advantage of the shooting talents of Mike Cyrill, Ray Salvo, and Gene Lunieski, while Bob Meeker showed his All-City form in the pivot position. However, the thing that made this year's Irish cagers especially "tough" were their tight defenses which made it very hard for opponents to score on the Saints. Twice during the season, big city scoring machines in the form of East and South were unable to score up to their potential and were upset by the underdogs.



One of our shotgun guards, Mike Kouri, starts off on the way to one of his patented driving layups.

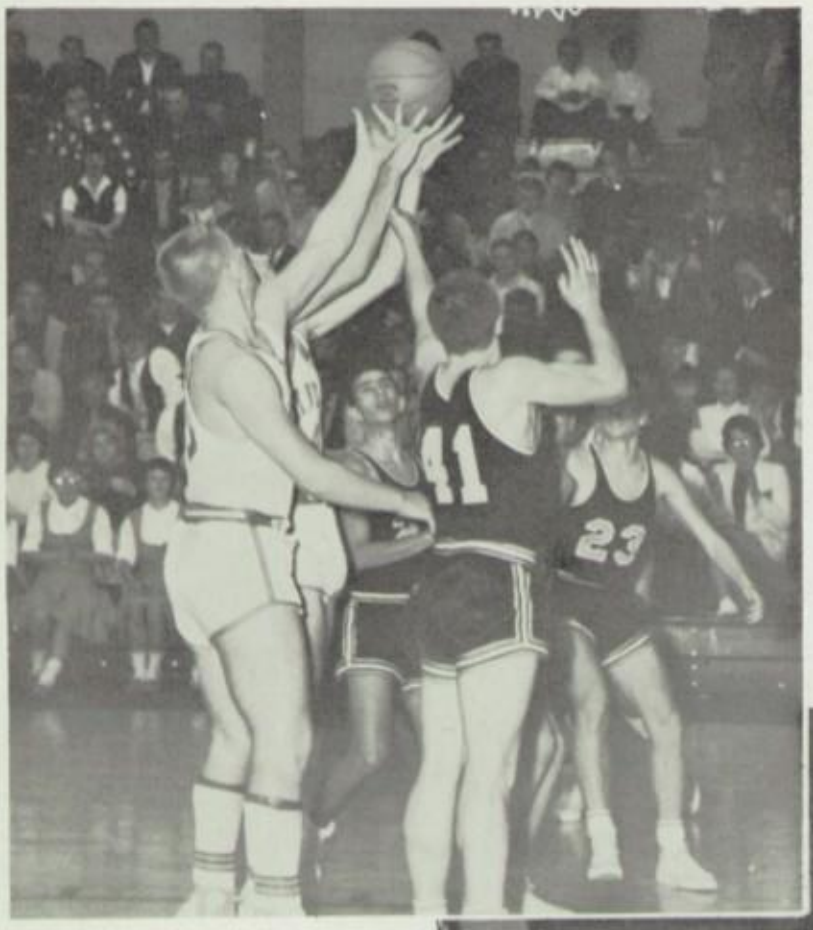
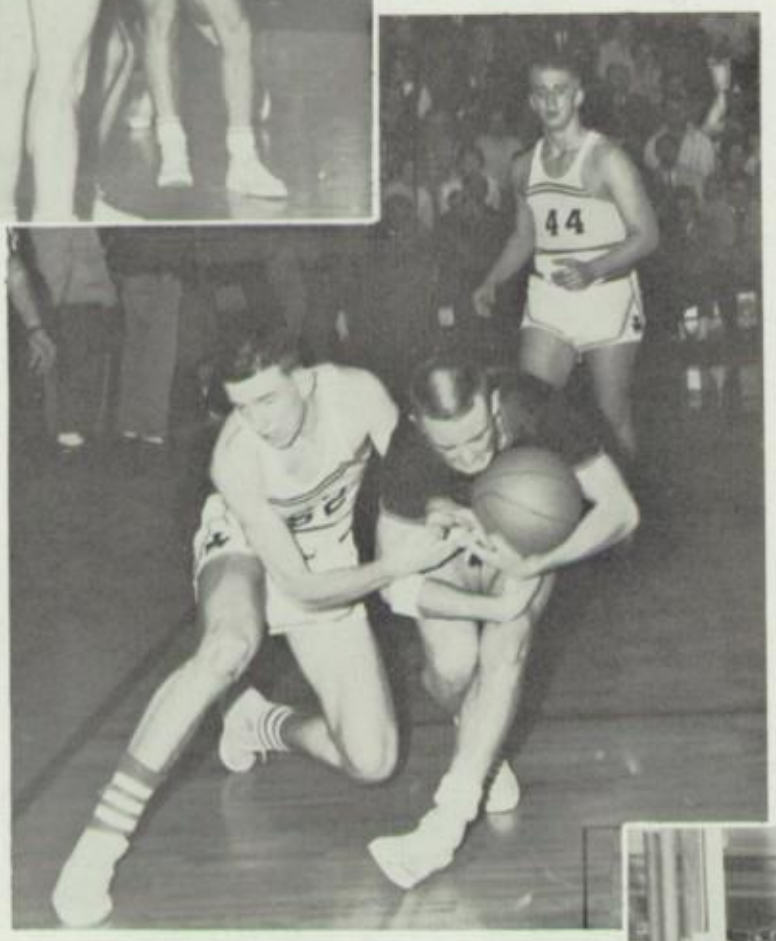
on the road to a successful season



Bob Meeker lunges into a pack of Falls Tigers and manages to salvage the ball from the grips of the opponents.

The job of floor leader for the Irish was capably fulfilled by senior Ray Salvo. Salvo continually sparked the team to greater heights all season long. Mike Cyrill's long arching set shot, hitting with uncanny accuracy, opened up the defenses for Bob Meeker's fine repertoire of hooks and drive shots. Gene Lunieski, who proved to be a great asset to the team, was the most improved player on the starting five. His drive shots accounted for many points, and he turned out to be a rough customer under the boards. Bob Chilson, tallest man on the squad at 6'5", used his height to full advantage and was a capable shooter from the outside. It was a group of fine individual performers molded together as a very smooth unit.



Gene Lunieski vainly tries to jar the ball loose from a Hoban Knight, as Bob Meeker rushes to assist.

Mike Kouri blasts through a host of Wildcat defenders and tucks the ball in for two points.

Irish cagers close in hard and fast

Bob Meeker searches for help as the Barberton Magic defense closes in.

Irish hoopsters of '60-'61 left their fans with plenty to remember in the form of upsets, thrills, and anxieties. They established themselves as undisputed Parochial Champs and placed third in the Inter-City Conference. Shaking early season doldrums, the Irish finished strongly with a winning 12-9 season, including upset victories over highly-touted South and East. Endress's Chargers won two hard-fought games on the tournament trail before bowing gallantly to South in a heartbreaking score of 55 to 53.

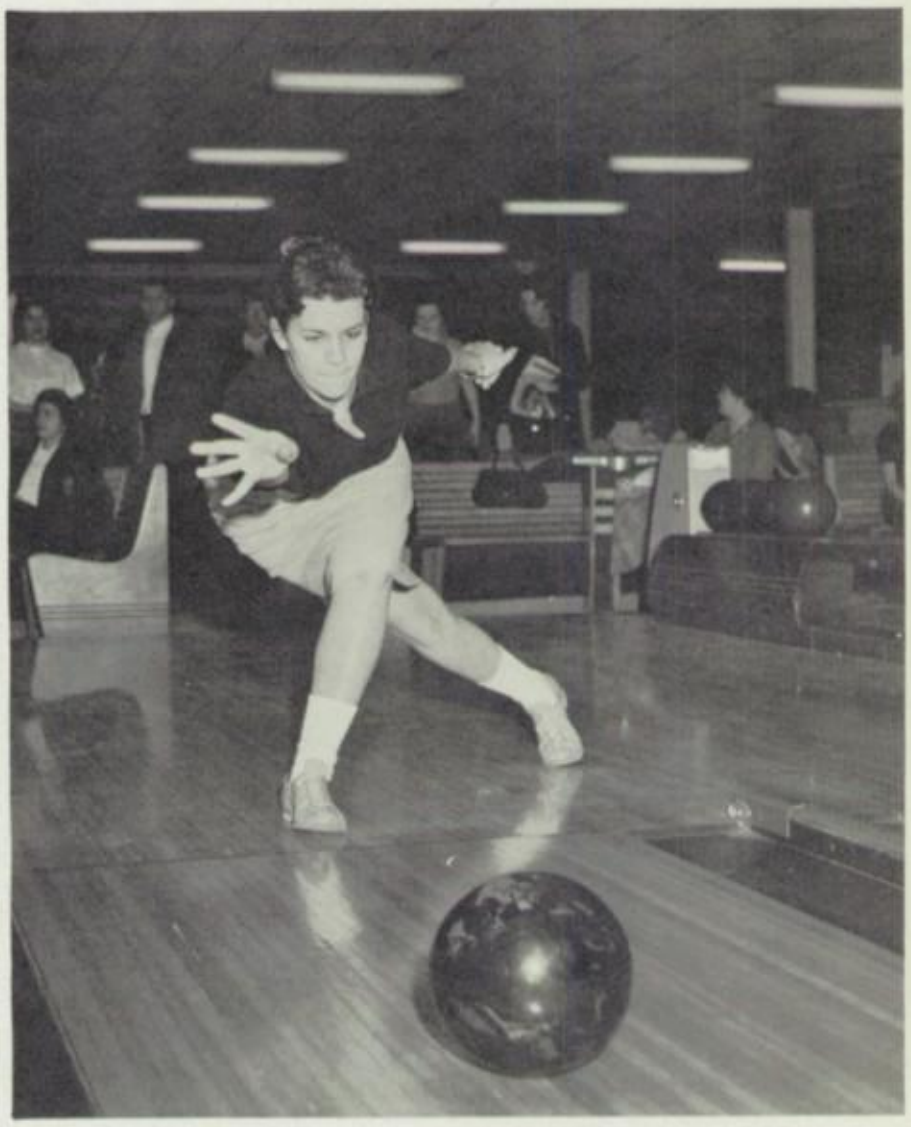
Keglers bowl for keenest enjoyment

Girls at St. V. proved to be avid followers of a game played with ten wooden pins and a hard rubber ball. The bowling program is aimed to give the girls both physical exercise and mental relaxation. The girls proved to be hard competitors and took the game seriously. Strange sounds filled the alleys with female voices booming out, "Come on, strike!" Bowling scores turned in this winter varied to a great extent, ranging from 66 to 166. The league was paced by Diane DeJacimo and Bonnie Ochsenhirt who rolled 167 and 166 respectively. High game series was turned in by Fran Jendrisak with a respectable 425. It is good to see the girls of St. Vincent, as well as the boys, get a chance to participate in extra-curricular activities which display sportsmanship and skill. We hope they will continue this endeavor.



What a look of grim determination crosses the face of Cam Villanova as she guides the ball into the pocket!

Bernie Antonino proudly points out her high score and her team's victory as Penny Dickinson, Madeline Markovich, and Fran Jendrisak readily approve. Scoring—complex, but necessary—is being done by Marianne Engler.

Thinclads work hard in competition

Under Coach John Cistone, the St. Vincent track team, although very inexperienced, worked hard and won their share of meets. Turning in a respectable record for 1960, the Irish thinclads won 8 and lost 5. Finishing third in the first Inter-City Track Meet, the Irish track team became the first St. V. athletic team to defeat Hoban, edging out the Knights 29-28. The team was strong in the dashes, hurdles, and weight events, lacking strength only in the field events. Many times during the season the Irish took the lead early in the meet only to see it slip away, due to lack of power in the field events. Hank Durand, high point man with 89 points, also copped Most Valuable Player Award. Tony Butowicz, second highest in the race for points with 67, excelled in pole vaulting. Bob Chilson, Dick Riley, Ben Savage and Gene Lunieski also added strength. With a strong nucleus of returning "veterans," the 1961 Irish track team should go far in competition.

Track season finds Bob Chilson, John Kehrle, and Gene Lunieski, really exerting themselves at daily practice.

Tony Butowicz, a top man in the city in the pole vault, clears the bar.

while linksters eye district title again

Golf has for a long time been the strongest of the spring sports at St. Vincent High. The St. V. golf team has reputation for being one of the best in the state. This year's team of Bob Meeker, Bill Marshall, Denny Sauter, and Joe Palmer is a typically strong team. In 1960 the golf team enjoyed a mediocre year but gained good experience in the psychology of competitive golf. This is a very important factor in their favor as they work to be city champs. The golfers are looking forward to the district tournament where they will have a chance to stroke their way to Columbus and to the State Finals.

Frosh blush, witches rush, fall's here!

Students all agree—"The Howdy Hop" is a dance that always puts freshmen at ease. It's an ice-breaker!

All newly-enrolled freshmen were introduced to St. Vincent's social activity at the annual Howdy Hop. For many of the freshmen, this was their first encounter on a dance floor. Sodality sponsors joined with the newcomers in leading off the "Bunny Hop." Certain seniors were responsible for a barrage of balloons that descended on the unsuspecting students as the clock struck eleven. The success of the first dance of the season can only be measured by the friendship that prevails following it.

No longer unfamiliar faces, the freshmen become a part of St. V. on Friendship Day. Sign here!

Friendship fills each day of the year

Alana Balzano doesn't want the witch to be thirsty, as Charles Drexler offers some refreshment to Annette La Voie at the "Haunted Hop." Who would trust the potion brewed in the witch's cauldron? Beware all!

Hallways are jammed, all the school is stirring, and students everywhere are swarming with their pens in hand seeking autographs. What causes all this excitement? Everyone knows it's Friendship Day at St. V. New friends are sought by all. This yearly event is sponsored by the N.H.S. to provide the initial spirit of friendship which lasts often throughout the course of many years.

"Ye witch's den" attracted the adventurous! An eerie setting and a festive mood was all that was needed to make the "Haunted Hop" a truly successful Halloween dance. Even the old witch stopped mixing her potion and enjoyed herself. In keeping with Halloween custom, the Art Club served cider and doughnuts at their dance and provided a good time for all on Beggars' Night.

Homecoming climaxes victorious season

Queen Toni and her court held sway over the annual Homecoming Dance, which brought a fitting climax to a successful season. As Queen Toni received her crown, the curtain came down on another year of Irish supremacy in football. The spirit of victory emanated from all as the whole school honored the District Champions and the Homecoming Court. Many of the alumni, too, returned to honor the queen. Traditional chrysanthemums decorated the social center for this pre-Thanksgiving dance.

Homecoming Queen Toni Perkins receives her autographed football, emblematic of the District Championship, from Ned Endress, her escort.

Gay spirit prevails at holiday formal

Magically, a winter wonderland came true at the annual Christmas Formal. The holiday spirit was present everywhere from the gaily decorated Christmas trees to the tiny streetlights which adorned each table. As the happy couples danced to the music of Frankie Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus watched over the proceedings from their snowy place of honor at the side of the dance floor. This annual Christmas dance, which is sponsored by the Junior class, has a reputation for being the most gaily decorated dance of the year and this year's was no exception. Everyone had fun and the night flew by much too swiftly. The warmth and spirit of the Christmas season, created by the festive decorations and the many moods of the season enveloped everyone and built memories that will last long after a "forest" of evergreens is the background.

with "enchanting" Junior-Senior Prom

Another first at Saint V! The Class of '61 "came across" again, with the Prom making its initial appearance in the new fieldhouse. Dancing in beautifully decorated surroundings, influenced by the Spirit of Springtime, couples glided over the smooth surface and formals swirled. In the graduating class, mixed emotions were present. Happiness was in the air, but unmistakably present, however, was the feeling of sadness. Looking back on four wonderful years, seniors realized this was their last social event at St. Vincent School. As the young evening slipped into its final hours, it was evident that this was truly an evening to be long remembered.

Memories are made at the Prom, and Jim House will keep those memories in his photograph of Barbara Flynn, John Russo, and Barbara Crano under the prom arch.

"We Can Face Tomorrow"

The tradition of the ages
Perpetuated at St. Vincent—
Giving education to young people
That they may live more fully;
Giving them the tools of learning
That they may interpret life;
And teaching them truth,
That they may delve deeply into life
To find that which is good.

our lives for "Eternal Commencement"

It is one of the privileges of Catholic students to have priests teach religion. Besides our own parish priests, Father O'Neill, Father Retter, Father Zepp, and Father Horley, there are priests from other parishes who come once a week to teach religion class and to answer the questions of the students. These priests are: Father Donald Abel, Father Lawrence Bayer, Father James Becherer, Father Donald Fromm, Father John Garrity, Father Robert Hanzo, Father John Wessel, Father Richard Ziegler, and Father Paul Zarling. To these we are grateful for their help.

Faith is strengthened by study of God

Saint Vincent High School has a many-sided character, but nothing is more outstanding than the deeply religious spirit that lives throughout the school. Religion class starts the day for all the students at Saint Vincent. What is the purpose of this intensive four-year study of religion? To instill into the minds of Catholic youth the spirit of a devout and intensely religious life in the dangerous and uncertain years ahead is one of the most important aims of religious education. From freshman review of Baptism to senior study of vocations, we strive for maturity and happiness.

Barbara Kannel, Sharon Rollow, and Valerie Shaul demonstrate the essentials to be prepared for a sick call, as seniors study Extreme Unction.

English classes stimulate interest

Each student must major in English before he can graduate from St. Vincent. Grammar, of course, is taught; but the student also learns that training in English is of great value to him both in college and in the business world. This year stress was laid on composition. The staff of the school newspaper introduced a Vincentian supplement, "Leprechaun Lit," which publishes the selected writings of the students. Many students, too, captured honors in national literary contests, including the N.C.T. E. Excellence in English Award and The National Poetry Anthology.

Bulletin boards, both educational and decorative, are arranged by Margie Capotosto, Sandy Giosso, and Linda Manuel, for English IV.

to accent language in curriculum

As the soaring sixties begin, people in America are realizing how small the world really is. The enchanting cities of Paris and Rome are only a few days away by boat and a few hours by plane. Even though this smallness of the world is indeed a reality, there is still one thing that draws people of different countries away from each other, the main obstacle of language. This is the reason the languages taught at St. Vincent's are the deep, gutteral German, the French of diplomats, and Latin, the language of the Church. The understanding of these languages can help to draw Americans ever closer to our neighbors.

Latin II students draw a comparison between the homes of Roman days and the homes of today. Edward Lambe and Constance Kotun (seated). Sharon Bailey, Sylvia Seaver, and John Swenson (standing).

help to educate man's whole self

Two classes which are a combination of fun and hard work for the girls at St. V. are physical education and home economics. Under the supervision of Miss Ottogalli, the girls' gym classes devote most of their time to basketball. Sister Josette makes home economics vital. In her classes, the students learn the art of homemaking. Sewing, decorating, cooking, and home nursing are all included in this one year course. These classes prepare our young women to be the future homemakers of America, educated for moral leadership as well as social responsibility.

Preparing a full course meal for home ec class are Cheryle Jonke, Sandy Heffelman, Nora Noall, and Lottie Wagner.

Junior class leaders fulfil social duties

Selected by their classmates, the junior class officers must see that the duties of their class are fulfilled. Here John Stith, Ellen Engler, Carol Koneff, Bob Meeker, and Roberta Lawrence plan the Christmas Formal, their first social endeavor of the school year. Besides this mid-winter dance, the junior class also sponsors the biggest social event of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom. These activities prepare for some of the social events they will sponsor as seniors. Highlights of officers' responsibilities are ring ceremony arrangements. Sandwiched in each week are many meetings.

Can we reach the moon? Will we conquer cancer? Can we provide for the growing population? All these questions are plaguing the minds of the world today. Some people think that these problems are unsolvable, but are they? Look at the great progress that has been made in the last fifty years. This progress has been made possible by the ingenious ways that men have applied their scientific learning. Some day one of the members of a St. Vincent chemistry class may discover a wonder drug or a physics student might design a perfect rocket. Science will, in the future, bring us a new and better way of life. St. V. "scientists" aim at that.

Hank Durand, chairman, commands attention of delegates during American history class convention. After deliberation and debate, delegates showed how the major parties would do it by nominating Kennedy and Nixon.

Cries of "Let's Back Jack" and "Experience Counts" resounded as American history students put their knowledge to use and held a mock convention. They made their choices known by following convention proceedings. Learning the how and why of our government and its history was the project set before the social studies classes. Civics classes set out to learn how our government is run; history students learned its background. The senior problems classes studied platforms of both parties completely before voting.

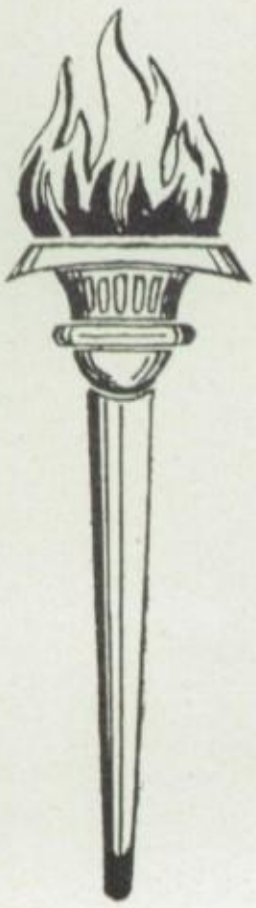
as students select new national leaders



Marcia Musgrave and Florence Czarnecki wait for Steven Mysko as Paul Paxton and Nicholas Vandam register for voting. Free elections keep the flame of freedom's torch burning.

Excitement filled the air as St. Vincent students went to the polls to "Pick Dick" or "Back Jack." Feelings ran high and the results of the election were eagerly awaited by the entire student body. "Jack" Kennedy won overwhelming victory in this election. Students were shown democracy in action and had their interest in the political scene and current events heightened by the election. This is one way in which students are prepared for social living and the self-government of their own democratic country.

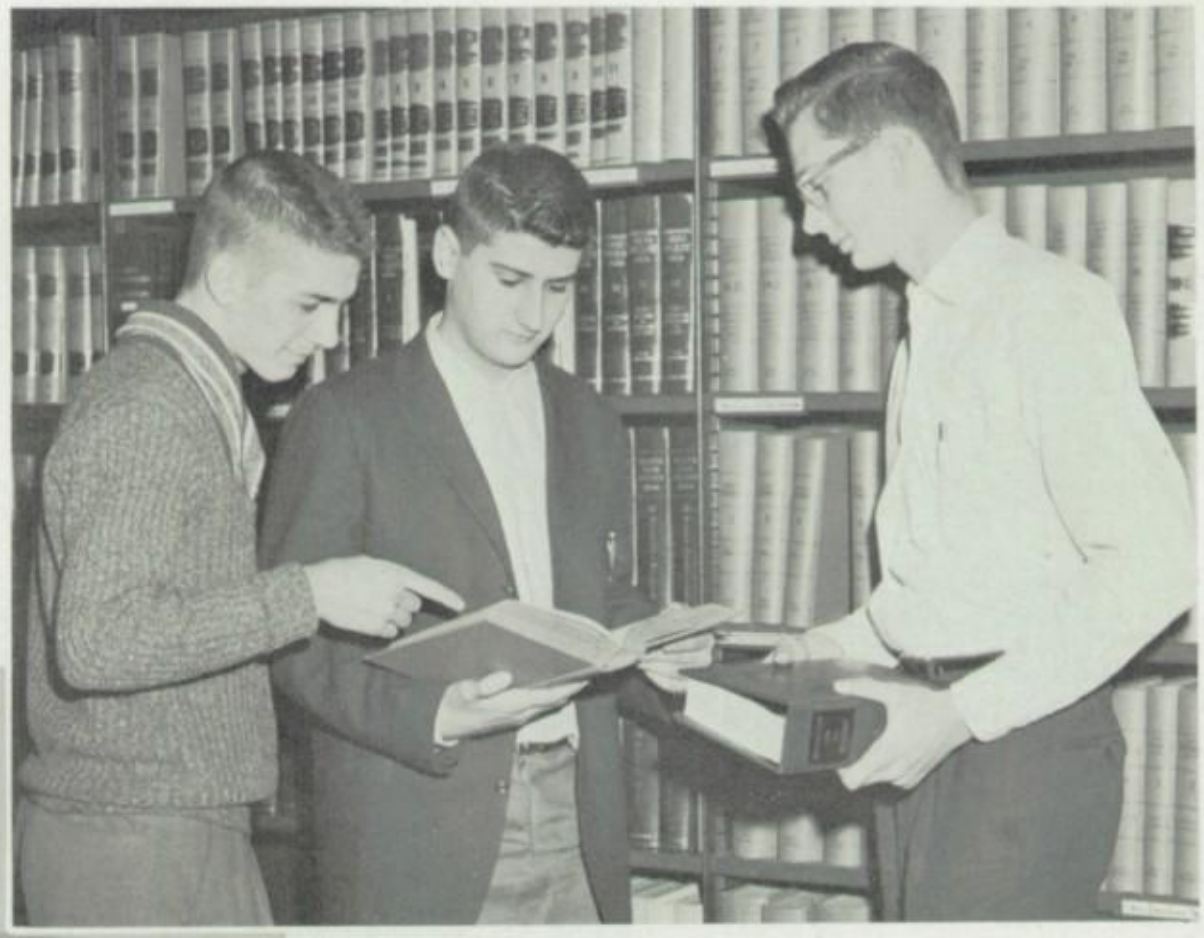
Research and application stressed



Technical law procedures draw our business law students into libraries for further research. Examining law books are Tom Banco, Tom Kraft, and Chuck Drexler. Business law was added to the curriculum this year.

Learning the use and the care of various office machines is a part of the clerical class. Dolores Hilgert, Connie Gill, and Joann Kirstein practice their skills at an adding and listing machine, a duplicating machine and a rotary calculator.

Marcia Rinella, Joseph Conti, Dennis Rogers, and Patricia Rennie are learning a skill which will probably serve them more than any other one they have. Most certainly this course has a "lab" period different from any other!

in preparation for a fuller life

It takes great talent to be a successful artist. Alana Balzano, Margaret Gentile, and Judy Riegler prepare to display their talent in the diocesan art contest and the Scholastic art contest.

Art, senior problems, business law, clerical practice, and driver training are courses which play major roles in shaping the lives of the students of St. Vincent. Those such as art, business law, and clerical practice prepare the students for definite occupations. Driving is a skill which, once learned, will never be forgotten and which will always be of great value. Perhaps the most well-rounded of these subjects is senior problems. It prepares the students not only for harmonious living but also for successful careers. "Problems" gives the senior a good picture of what to expect in the immediate and distant future.

Senior problems classes prepare the students for some of the problems they will encounter in a democratic society. Students learn about such varied things as preparing a college schedule, and understanding the how and why of the United States government. Here Mark Schillinger leads the class in a mock United Nations General Assembly. In April, St. V. students represented four nations in the United Nations Model Assembly held at the University of Akron. Hank Durand was elected as Secretary-General of the Assembly.

"We'll Never Walk Alone"

The graduate may climb tall hills;
Moses found God on Mount Sinai.
He may swim the swift blue of the sea;
Christ walked the waters of Galilee.
He may traverse burning sands;
Christ dwelt in the desert forty days.
He shall never walk alone—
His God will not forsake him.

Gold rings symbolize our loyalty

"Finally!" "At last!" This was the general consensus of the seniors as the day of the ring ceremony arrived. Their anticipations and expectations were realized as Msgr. Conry officiated at the solemn ceremony. Fr. Horley, the speaker, told the class of the history and the meaning of rings. When we wear our class rings, he told us, we must live up to the ideals of our school and our class. The receiving of our rings was not only celebrated in a solemn setting, at St. V. Church, but the sophomores were invited.

Dolores Flanagan is happy to receive her ring from Monsignor Conry, assisted by Lois Gerry.

Officers represent seniors to school

Seniors must elect class officers who possess leadership, responsibility, and loyalty—for it is these officers who must represent the class to Father O'Neill, to the faculty, and to the underclassmen. They must see to it that the seniors present the good example which is so necessary if a good school spirit is to prevail. This year, the first example of senior leadership was in the annual Magazine Drive and in football. Scholastic heights were two National Merit finalists and a N.C.T.E. Excellence in English Award; and scholarships rewarded hard work.

Mapping the course for senior activities, the senior class officers—Ray Salvo, president, and Barb Crano, vice-president, get a point across to treasurer Hank Durand and secretary Rita Viscione.

What paint can do for the spirit!

Booster members Linda Dangel, Nancy Singleton, Pat McGuckin, and Terry Pedone "spiritize" painting signs for the basketball game with the Cuyahoga Falls "Tigers." The girls capitalize on the value of signs and paint.

Win or lose, the athletic teams at St. Vincent always have the support of the student body. Members of the Vincenteen Boosters will always see to it that there are encouraging signs hanging in the auditorium before football and basketball games. Since the Boosters is a service club and its main purpose is to promote school spirit, it also is in charge of sponsoring cheer rallies and selling the football and basketball programs. St. V. can be proud of its spirit and the Boosters can be proud of everything they do to promote it.

Knowledge crowns a four-year effort

It is a goal toward which we have been striving, yet it makes us somewhat sad when we attain it! A diploma represents four years of work and study, but what rewarding years those were! They carried with them the satisfaction of obtaining a good grade on a hard test or giving a good answer in class. They carried, too, the joy of having friends. It is because of the enriching experiences and the friends that we are sad to leave. In four years the school becomes a part of us and when we leave it, we realize that most fully.

Proudly but nostalgically, a graduate receives her diploma from Monsignor Conry, who is assisted by Father Zepp.

Though unassuming, they're important!

Mrs. Gunn, the head cook, shows Father Horley a sample of delicious cooking as the assistants, Mrs. Brandt, Mrs. Seidell, Mrs. Sullivan, and Mrs. Williams proudly look on. Hot lunches and snacks which they so skillfully prepare are a welcome change for students who for so long had to eat the cold lunches which they carried from home.

Well-known and well-liked by the student body is the school custodian, Ray Blocker.

Representatives of the freshman class contributed greatly to the annual Talent Show which the N. H. S. sponsors. In a reenactment of a scene from the Broadway play, The Music Man, they presented the students with one of the most enjoyable acts of the show. Participants were: Ingeborg Falticska, Nancy Engler, Kathy O'Shea, Ted Delnoce, Carol Chorney, Denny Marks as Prof. Harold Hill, Chandler Blewett, Ray Herdman, Tom Shumaker, Ellen Griffiths, Bob Tempero, Diane Romas, Maria O'Brien, Vince Scalera, and Bill Kelly. Pool is going out!

"We'll remember always" the joy of song

Christmas shoppers at O'Neil's Department Store were serenaded by members of the St. Vincent Mixed Chorus. Directed by Sr. Paul, the group composed of juniors and seniors filled the air with songs of holiday cheer.
